

GIMBLETT GRAVELS SYRAH 2016

James Suckling – November 2017

93 / 100

Attractive florals and red berry fruits swathed in pepper and woody spices, as well as a nicely fitted spicy oak thread. The palate has a forthright, succulent and focused feel with plenty of blackberry and redder fruit flavors that twist neat and tight through the finish. Latent power here.

Raymond Chan Wine Reviews – November 2017

18.5 / 20 ★★★★★

Very dark, deep purple-hued ruby-red colour, a little lighter on the rim, very youthful in appearance. The nose is softly full and voluminous with well-packed aromas of ripe dark raspberry fruit with blackberries, black and white pepper, dark-red and violet floral fragrances and nuances of dark herbs. Medium-bodied, the palate has elegantly concentrated flavours of ripe blackberry and dark raspberries with a layering of pepper, lifted florals, dark herbs and spices. The fruit is supported by fine tannin extraction, lending powdery textures and grip. The acidity is integrated and the mouthfeel is sweet and mouthfilling. The wine carries to a soft, lingering finish of dark-red fruits, pepper and spice. This is an elegantly concentrated Syrah with mouthfilling flavours of black and red fruits, pepper, florals and herbs on a fine-textured palate.

Sam Kim Wine Orbit – November 2017

94 / 100 ★★★★★

Fabulously styled as always, the latest offering of this reliable label is another beauty. Fragrant aromas of dark plum, blueberry compote, violet, almond and pepper spice lead to a succulent palate that is silky and rounded, and offers excellent fruit purity and a lingering smooth finish. Tannins are fine and in perfect balance, making the wine immensely appealing and approachable.

